Enger Brothers: New Drawings and Paintings

Private Viewing at the Mindy Wyatt Gallery Thursday May 6, 7pm

Artists Matthew and Mark Enger are featuring their latest collection, "Enger Brothers: New Drawings and Paintings" at Mindy Wyatt Gallery in New York. The twin brothers work, includes figurative and large format images, texture paintings in glossy finishes and drawings.

Works by the Enger Brothers have been included in downtown New York venues including as We Live In PUBLIC, the Max Fish Gallery, the ULAE Gallery. Mindy Wyatt Gallery was established in May, 2009 by collector and owner Mindy Wyatt.

From Mark Enger's painting titled "Washington Crossing the Delaware", to Matthew Enger's entitled "Orpah", the Enger brothers present vivid images of Pop and American History. Beneath these spectrums of vivid purples, yellows, and latex reds, are subtle undertones of storyboard lust. Each image holds its own narrative and revolutionary style.

The Enger Brothers have spent the past two decades reflecting the social, political and artistic landscapes of American history through a unique outlaw-rock lens, gaining attention. Born in Fort Sill, Oklahoma, the Enger Brothers grew up surrounded by military officers, archeologists and Native Americans; both of these groups continue to resonate within the works on view. The twin brothers moved to New York where they established themselves downtown as artists, making unique paintings and silkscreen prints.
